Description:

As the Society of Actuaries pursues its mission on behalf of members and stakeholders, it is committed to an ongoing dialogue that is open and informed. To that end, the SOA is conducting a listening tour to meet with members where they live and work. Craig Reynolds will outline the Society's current areas of focus and strategic vision, then he'll answer questions and ask for your feedback. Hearing your thoughts about the current and future strategic direction of the SOA is the most important part of this meeting.
